Zoning hearings scheduled

Four dates set

BY ED LEPOMA

The Board of Supervisors has authorized a series of four meetings to get public input of a comprehensive zoning ordinance for Hancock County.

Supervisors set the dates for the hearings after a workshop meeting Monday with members of the Gulf Regional Planning Commission. The commission discussed with supervisors the draft proposal on zoning drawn up by the Southern Mississippi Planning and Development Commission and first presented to supervisors last March.

Throughout discussion on the zoning proposals, planners and supervisors emphasized "nothing is written in stone." In fact, some changes were in zoning recommendations during the workshop.

The legislation was developed to coordinate the future physical growth of Hancock County into the next century, and Board President Philip Moran said he wanted to emphasize, "the majority of folks won't be affected."

"The main goal is to keep commercial development out of residential areas. We want to protect the residents," said Moran.

The meetings will be conducted by the GRPC staff, and the first is scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday, Feb. 26, at Gulfview Elementary School on Lower Bay Road in Lakeshore. (See box for time and place of the three additional meetings.)

As drafted, the county would be divided into seven major zones, with the majority of Hancock County classified as "A-1 General Agricultural."

Because of the rural nature of the county, this zoning is recommended to encourage and protect the area from urbanization "until such is warranted," according to the draft proposal.

Permitted uses in this zone would include single family dwelling, a mobile home—but no trailer parks, churches, and buildings or activity related to agricultural use.

Throughout the discussions with the planning commission, supervisors stressed trailer parks or neighborhood businesses already located in an area designated Agriculture would not have to move. These would be "grandfathered in," and allowed to continue to operate, supervisors said.

Certain areas of the county would be set aside for R-1 single family residential development. This is the most restrictive district, and the principal use of the land is for single-family dwellings and related recreational, religious and educational facilities. Some two family dwellings would be allowed, but not for rental.

The proposed zoning ordinance also sets aside areas in the county for R-2 Single family dwellings in a medium density residential neighborhood, and R-3 Multi-family Residential.

Permitted uses in R-2 zones would include single family homes and mobile homes, up to four units for multi-family living, public parks and playgrounds, private piers, boathouses, slips, docks and wharfs, plus all uses permitted in R-1.

Trolley, recycling in Bay may be discontinued

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Two highly visible public services in Bay St. Louis are on the brink of extinction -- curbside recycling and trolley service.

City Council discussed the fate of both at meetings this week, in an apparent unanimous rush to end the transit program and an apparent quandary over the future of recycling.

More than 30 downtown merchants and business employees petitioned council

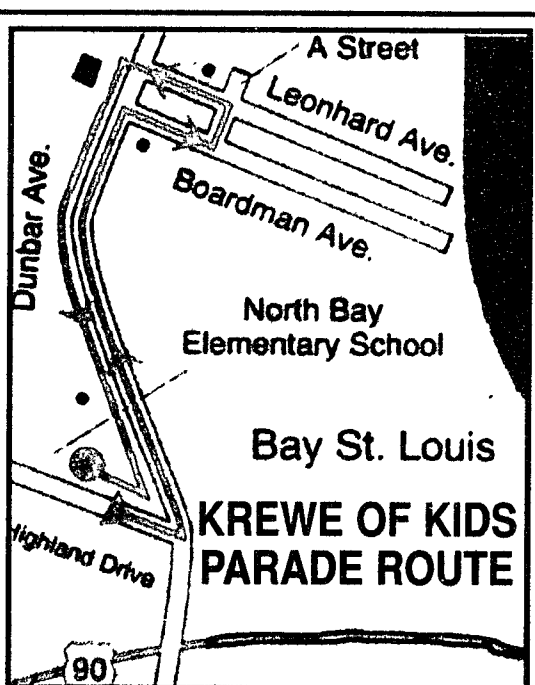

Monday to keep the transit service alive. Their plea was joined by a Casino Magic representative, offering to help market a revamped, scaled-down version of the existing service.

But figures submitted by Coast Transit Authority officials diminished almost all the wind of enthusiasm left in council's sails for subsidizing the program: ridership has been in a downhill slide recently, leaving a virtually empty trolley making its rounds about town.

Even CTA's director, Ted Hearn, conceded the ridership isn't sufficient to justify continuing the service as is.

The annual Krewe of Kids parade begins in Bay St. Louis at 11 a.m. Saturday, at Highland Drive and Dunbar Avenue, featuring kids on bikes, wagons, skating and walking.

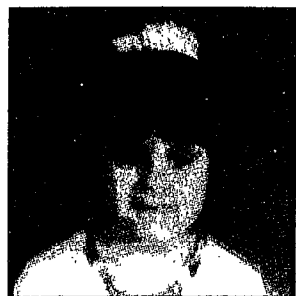

Parade Captain Lisa Coward has announced this year's queen is six-year-old Jessica Marie Polit, and king is 13-year-old Henry A. Spurlock III. The royalty was selected by the luck of the draw after the community sent in nominations. The theme of this year's parade is "Here Today, Gone Tomorrow," famous children.

 SCREEN TEST

People who sit in front of computer screens for the better part of their days may well find that their labors lead to dry or irritated eyes, blurry vision, headaches and other forms of eye strain. What they often find is that computer work causes problems more often than other close work and it can aggravate small visual problems that might not otherwise be noticeable. For instance, most people require reading glasses by their mid-forties, but this eyeglass prescription may not serve the computer user well. That is because the computer screen is viewed at a different distance and angle than the ones at which a newspaper is read. To avoid straining to read the screen or sitting in an uncomfortable position, computer-dedicated glasses are needed in many cases.

Call KOSKAN EYE CLINIC at 466-5201 if you spend a significant amount of time in front of computer screens and experience the symptoms described in this week's column. Our eye health examinations include thorough inspection of the internal and external parts of the eyes, measurement of visual acuity, testing of eye muscle movements, screening of peripheral visual fields and glaucoma and cataract testing.

We treat dry eye syndrome and specialize in the treatment of medical and surgically related eye problems. Our eyewear selection includes designer frames, sunglasses and progressive lenses. Visit us at Highway 90, Bay St. Louis, MS. Happy Valentine's Day to you and your loved ones!

P.S. Studies show that blink rate slows when using a computer, which may lead to dry eye.

Survivors include two sons, Ardley R. Hanemann Jr. and Donald J. Hanemann, six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Services were conducted Tuesday at Jesuit High School Chapel of the North American Martyrs. Lake Lawn Metairie Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Board still undecided over monies to fund new school board offices

BY ED LEPOMA

Facing a Feb. 13 deadline, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors is still wrangling over where to find funds to renovate a building it has purchased for District School Board offices.

Before Supervisors adjourned their meeting Monday, they asked Mike Reeves, the architect who drew up specifications for the design changes, to ask the low bidder to give supervisors at least until their meeting of Feb. 15 to make a final decision.

Reeves had been asked if the county could get the building finished cheaper by contracting out various jobs to subcontractors.

He told supervisors, should something go wrong during or after the construction, it would be a "nightmare."

One contractor might blame the other for inferior work, he said.

Supervisors also heard from Harold "Willie" Gavney, county building inspector. He said he looked over the design plans, and the county might save some money by making some changes. But, Gavney said, that would reduce the cost of the building by only $6,000 to $10,000.

In discussing the dilemma, Board President Philip Moran wondered out loud whether the school board could share in the cost of the renovation. District 3 Supervisor Lisa Coward asked the media present to disregard Moran's remarks because she didn't want school board members to think supervisors were "blindsiding" them on the issue.

But, Moran said he had already discussed the possibility with some members, whom he did not name.

Later at a workshop session, Moran put the question of sharing the cost directly to Hancock County School Supt. Terrell Randolph, who seemed to be taken off guard.

Moran said supervisors have to come up with an additional $79,000 to go forward with the project. (Legally, supervisors cannot let a contract without the funds on hand to complete it).

Moran said, "I'm not trying to blindsides you. We're just trying to figure out every possible way to meet this deadline (Feb. 13), and get this building done."

Randolph, who also took office Jan. 2 along with the supervisors, said he had not discussed the building with his school board.

"I don't know what we can legally do," (about sharing the cost) said Randolph.

Randolph promised he would discuss the sharing possibility with the school board when it met Monday night.

At that meeting, Randolph asked school board attorney Steve Benvenuti to research the law after an Echo reporter posed the same question to him. He did not discuss the supervisors' proposal with school board members.

Benvenuti later told the Echo that current law requires the board of supervisors to provide and pay for the school district's administrative offices.

"The inverse of that would be that it doesn't allow us to pay for it," said Benvenuti.

Randolph told the Echo privately after the supervisors' workshop that he had some concerns about whether the building being considered would be large enough for future needs. He said he would have preferred if the administrative building would have been built on school board land already available at Hancock High.

The reason for all the hand-wringing is because the new board of supervisors inherited the unfinished product as a result of action taken by the five previous supervisors, all of whom are now out of office.

Those supervisors voted 4-1 to spend $85,000 and purchase a one-acre tract of land and a 4,000-square-foot building (a former convenience store) off Hwy. 603, and renovate it for new administrative offices for the school district. County records showed supervisors approved buying the property from Margie H. Larsen and Eric Larsen at their meeting last August. District 2 Supervisor Alton (Dolph) Kellar voted against it.

Before supervisors left office, they adopted a budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, but only set aside $40,000 for renovations to the building.

On Dec. 15, supervisors opened bids on the project, and Moran Hauling Inc. of Picayune was low bidder at $119,990.

When the bids were opened, Supervisor Howard Lizana, who was instrumental in securing the land and building which is located in his District 3, was so frustrated that he moved to throw out the bids and cancel the project.

Fellow supervisors, however, persuaded him to "take the bids under advisement" and let the incoming board of supervisors make the decision on whether to proceed.

Randolph waives salary for calendar year 1996

BY TRACI BONNEY

Hancock County superintendent Terrell Randolph announced at Monday's regular school board meeting that he won't be drawing his salary this year.

Although his decision did not require any school board action, he asked that the board spread his announcement on their minutes for bookkeeping purposes, he said.

"The district receives some $4,800 from the state to be used for administrative purposes. If they don't use that money to pay me, they can apply it to another administrator's salary, saving the district some of its funds," he explained.

His decision to waive his salary for calendar year 1996 will save the district some $72,208 in salary and benefits, he added.

"The district can use those district funds on anything covered by the district funds budget," he said.

"This was what was best for both me and the district. I would probably make more money now by taking the salary, but I think that in the long run — over the next four or five years or so — it may work out better this way."

He said his decision was based on the tax incentives and retirement benefits to be had from continuing to draw on his state retirement fund. Like most educators, he had put 25 years into the state's public education system before he started drawing on his retirement in 1991, after he was defeated for re-election as superintendent. He won that post back in November.

As for whether or not he will waive his salary again next year, Randolph said he will make that decision by mid-December, since it must be reported to the state retirement office by the end of the year.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The City of Bay St. Louis will be holding seminars for local contractors, all phases, to help coordinate city ordinances in which changes have been made to comply with the Southern Standard Building Code.

Kay Johnson, director of administration, said, "Because of the recent changes, several jobs have been delayed because of improper information provided by contractors for home building and renovations."

The date and time for the seminars will be announced later and will be conducted by Bill Carrigee, Bay building official.

A lot of materials will be available for the contractors at the seminars.

Contractors, building, mechanical, plumbing, etc., will all be invited and encouraged to attend.

We will try to keep you informed.

Saturday, 11 a.m., is the big day for the annual Krewe of Kids in the Cedar Point area of Bay St. Louis.

For many years Hancock Supervisor Lisa Cowand has been coordinating the parade, which begins on Dunbar near North Bay Elementary.

The parade goes down Dunbar for several blocks and then returns back to the school to disband.

The parade includes bicycles, wagons, strollers, etc., all non-motorized vehicles.

I hope to see you at the parade.

If you are interested in voting in the March 12 "Super Tuesday" election, you need to be registered.

I realize most folks are registered electors, yet there are still some who are not as yet.

The deadline for registering in order to vote in the March 12 election is Saturday, Feb. 10.

In the March 12 election, it will be primary time for congressmen and presidential delegates.

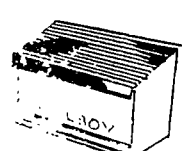

The Hancock County Circuit Clerk's office will be open from 8 a.m. until noon on Saturday for registrations, as well as 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and Friday.

For newcomers, the circuit clerk's office is located in the Hancock County Courthouse, Main Street, Bay St. Louis.

Just a reminder.

The 30th Anniversary Mardi Gras parade for the Krewe of Nereids is scheduled to roll Sunday, 1 p.m.

We will be giving you more information on that parade in Sunday's paper.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why are Waveland natural gas rates so high?

To the Editor:

In February of this year my gas/water/sewerage bill was so extraordinary I couldn't believe that two people living in a single family residence could use $501.90 of gas/water and sewerage in one month.

After a visit to the gas/water/sewerage department of Waveland, I learned that they hadn't read my meter correctly in January and under-charged me for that month, so February's bill was adjusted to correct their mistake. They apologized for this mistake.

The second thing I learned was that Waveland owns their own gas company. The other cities in Mississippi that use Entex have a much lower gas charge.

The third thing I learned was that the Waveland mayor and aldermen set the rates for gas.

How do they do this, based on what I don't know? I'm a fairly new resident of Waveland, and I can't believe that the residents of Waveland would allow their mayor and aldermen to do this to them.

Since Waveland is a public entity, the gas distribution system should be operated as a not-for-profit enterprise in order to provide its citizens with this necessity at minimal costs.

Natural gas users in Waveland pay more than their fair share of city operating costs.

They pay excessive rates for natural gas as well as the same taxes imposed on other citizens.

Such a high cost imposed upon the citizens of Waveland by their very own government representatives for a basic necessity seems as un-American as politicians being against mom baking apple pies.

Ready for celebration

The week of August 4-9, 1958, was celebration time for the residents of the City of Bay St. Louis. Men wore beards, and ladies' dresses were anti-bellum. Members of the Mississippi Power Company's office on Main Street were in step with the city's Centennial celebration. In early years Bay St. Louis was known as Shieldsborough. FROM THE MISSISSIPPI HOUSE

By Representative Dirk Dedeaux

Conservatives come together in Jackson

By Dirk Dedeaux,
State Representative
District 93
Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone Counties

Last week I was among a group of Democrat, Republican and Independent House members who converged in Jackson for one reason — to promote conservative values.

Among the 44 of us, who were charter members of the Conservative Coalition, were Representatives Charlie Williams, chairman of Ways and Means, and Mark Formby of Picayune.

Those who attended were in consensus that as legislators it is important to promote the following:

Strong traditional families
"The state should foster and protect the traditional family values, which have nurtured this nation and this state from their births."

Limited government
"Taxation should be restricted to a minimal level... Centralization of government authority should be avoided."

Free enterprise
"In order to foster personal incentive and economic growth, government policy should support the right of the worker to retain and enjoy the fruits of his labor."

Individual liberties
"Individual rights should not negate the individual's obligations to conduct himself as a responsible and productive member of the citizenry."

FROM THE MISSISSIPPI SENATE

By State Senator Scottie Cuevas

Subcommittee work dominates Senate action

Submitted by Senator Scottie R. Cuevas

Ice and snow caused havoc for thousands of Mississippians last week, and the Senate's work was interrupted late Thursday to allow us to depart the State Capitol before the storm's full brunt hit.

With Friday morning's work cancelled, we thought we could get back for Sunday, but road conditions proved otherwise for many of us so it was Monday before we could resume deliberations.

The fate of more than 900 general bills lay in the hands of Senate subcommittees leading up to a Tuesday, Feb. 5 reporting deadline. In most cases, if a particular bill didn't receive attention before the deadline, it's not going anywhere for 1996.

Among the measures receiving public attention were higher highway speed limits and high-profile subjects like private child-support collection, a uniform youth court system, and statewide expansion of the WorkFirst welfare reform program.

BILL REFERRALS

Generally, before a bill can be considered by the full Senate, the Lieutenant Governor refers it to a committee, whose chairman asks a subcommittee to study it, hold hearings if necessary, and make a recommendation to the full committee. Sometimes, bills are referred to two committees — or "double referred."

For example, Senate Bill 2440 proposes to establish a uniform system of youth courts throughout Mississippi. It was referred to the Juvenile Justice Committee and the Judiciary Committee.

On Tuesday, Juvenile Justice Committee members approved the bill with a minor amendment. On Wednesday, Judiciary members also approved the amended youth court system bill.

In many instances, subcommittees have sought to keep good ideas moving through the legislative process — with finances being taken into account, but not as the primary factor. Later, as committees work toward recommendations — especially the powerful Appropriations Committee — the costs will take more and more of a front seat.

Obviously, since we continue to be advised about very limited state resources, we will be closely examining every issue that survives the committee deadline.

Our next deadline is Thursday, Feb. 15: for original floor action on bills and constitutional amendments originating in the Senate. The House has the same deadline for its bills. Looming ahead 13 days is another big deadline for original floor action on appropriations and revenue bills originating in each house.

COMMITTEE ACTION

On Wednesday, the Highways & Transportation Committee authorized the State Department of Transportation to set speed limits of up to 70 miles per hour on interstate and "controlled access" highways. Limits on all other state highways will be up to 65 miles per hour. No separate speed limits were set for commercial trucks.

Among action taken by the Senate's 31 committee were:

— Judiciary Committee's approval to increase the number of assistants for District Attorneys; to establish a statewide public defender system; and to require municipalities to work by the same purchasing laws as counties;

— Public Health & Welfare's rejection of allowing the State Department of Health & Human Services to expand statewide a private contract to collect delinquent child support payments;

— Forestry approval of new standards for timber weights and measures;

— Elections' approval to allow driver's license offices and other agency locations to conduct voter registration or to update voter information;

— Wildlife's approval to revoke hunting privileges of persons who cause hunting accidents; and — County Affairs' approval to authorize county boards of supervisors to build private driveways, dig graves and maintain private roads used as Head Start turnarounds.

In mid-week action, committees approved such proposals as revocation of state licenses from persons who fail to pay court-ordered child support and requiring drivers to turn on vehicle headlights when they turn on windshield wipers in the rain.

Voter registration deadline Saturday

Secretary of State Eric Clark reminds Mississippians that Saturday, Feb. 10, is the last day to register to vote in the March 12 "Super Tuesday" Primary Election.

"I encourage all Mississippians to register and vote for the candidates of their choice," Clark said. "These are important elections for President, U.S. Senator and Congressmen, and all our citizens deserve to make their voices heard."

Prospective voters may register at their county circuit clerk's office or by mail, Clark said. Circuit clerk offices will be open until 7 nightly and until noon Saturday to register voters. Mail-in voter registration forms are available from circuit clerks or directly from the Secretary of State's office. Mail-in forms must be witnessed by a registered voter in the home county of the registrant and be postmarked by Feb. 10.

President Bill Clinton and perennial candidate Lyndon LaRouche are the only Democrats seeking the nation's high office. On the Republican side, 11 candidates: Senators Bob Dole, Phil Gramm and Richard Lugar, Representative Bob Dornan, former Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander, publisher Steve Forbes, TV commentator Pat Buchanan, radio host Alan Keyes, and businessmen Morry Taylor, Charles Collins, Tennie Rogers and Mississippian Billy Joe Clegg.

Voters will choose among candidates for president as part of a complicated process selecting delegates to attend the Democratic and Republican national conventions. The candidate nominated at each convention will appear on the November General Election ballot. There is no second primary for Presidential candidates.

For U.S. Senator and Representative, voters will decide directly the nominee of their party. If no candidate received a majority in the primary, "run-off" elections will be held April 2. Clark noted that voters may vote in either party primary, but may not switch parties for the run-off. Party primary winners will meet any independent candidates in the Nov. 5 general election.

Mississippi Senator Thad Cochran is unopposed in the Republican primary. Four of Mississippi's five Congressmen are seeking re-election (Mike Parker, Gene Taylor, Bennie Thompson and Roger Wicker). In the Third Congressional District, Rep. Sonny Montgomery's retirement has sparked an intense race to fill the seat he has occupied since 1967.

Mississippians also elect Supreme Court judges this year. However, judicial candidates do not run as members of political parties. All judges will be selected in November's general election.

COUNTRY CLUB

The demolition company has done a good job and expects completion before the end of the month. The result will be a site ready to start the new country club with little additional work.

A large number of individual members' ideas were received in response to a request for ideas in the December newsletter.

A "needs and wants list" from all the active organizations in the community has been submitted to potential architectural firms.

Selection of a firm as a result of a design competition is to be in mid to late February. President Van Norman hopes to have a town meeting with the selected firm present as soon as practical. It will be announced.

ACADEMY HAPPENINGS

As usual, our students have been quite busy at the school and will continue to be in the coming months.

The honor choir has performed at the nursing home, for the Diamondhead Garden Club and several times at the Mississippi Welcome Center.

They are a delight to hear and are under the direction of teacher Magdalena Blethrod.

The first graders went on a field trip to the Diamondhead Airport, where Allan Bishop gave them a tour of the facility. They were excited about being able to sit in the pilot's seat. Teacher Melissa Burge accompanied them.

Recently the kindergartners celebrated 100 days of school by bringing in posters and collections of 100 of all kinds of objects. Their teacher, Barbara Smith, picked out a "fun project" that they all enjoyed.

Valentine's Day is coming up next, and the students are making Valentines for the veterans at the VA Hospital. These seem to mean so much to these folks who have served our country. Are we proud of our school, its staff and our kids.

NEW OFFICERS

The Diamondhead Commu-

Demolition

ity Association held a dinner meeting with an election of new officers for 1996-97 at the Day's Inn on Friday, Feb. 2.

There was very nice attendance, a good meal, and Stephen Ambrose entertained us thoroughly with his vast knowledge of our American history. His talk was on the Lewis and Clark Expedition.

Tom McCoy is the new president, John McConnon, vice-president; Allan Grace, secretary; Bill Clemons, treasurer; Harry Little, Roger Urbano, Rose Rybinski, Don Young, and Margaret Zellner, directors. I'm sure all these folks will do a fine job as did their predecessors.

This group needs and welcomes new members. They stand for and try to make happen good things benefitting all of the community. Dues are $10 a year per family.

MARDI GRAS CORRECTION

Berlon Dennis is King Ali'i Honua XXI of the Diamondhead Krewe and will ride in the parade with Queen Alice Burkhardt on Saturday, Feb. 17 at noon. "Be in that number" on the parade route as the "Legends of Old" theme unfolds. Ronnie Kole is parade marshal.

Stephen Sondheim's "Side by Side by Sondheim," with music and lyrics by Sondheim, Leonard Bernstein, Mary and Richard Rodger and Jules Styne are being presented by the Diamondhead Performing Arts Society Sunday, Feb. 25 at 7 p.m. in Roger's Hall at the Academy.

Tickets are $15 adults, $3.50 students and may be purchased at LL Ltd. or at the door.

THOUGHTS TO SHARE

A look of love will at times have a better effect than all the prescriptions of a physician to one that ails.

Love cures people, both the ones who give it and the ones who receive it.

The Adult Degree Completion Program at the University of Mobile allows students to complete a bachelor of science degree in organizational management in about 16 months, while attending class one night a week.

A free information session will be held Thursday, Feb. 15 at 6 p.m. in the Jackson Room of Martin Hall on the UM campus.

Prospective students age 25 and older are invited to attend the session and learn about the program, financial aid and application procedures.

Students who have already earned about 60 semester hours of college credit are good candidates for the Adult Degree Completion Program.

Classes will begin in February and March. For information, call 675-5990, ext. 358, or 1-800-WIN-RAMS.

Waveland Alderman Louie Smolensky, chairman of the Waveland Civic Association Muscular Dystrophy Campaign, is shown accepting a plaque from Karen Davis, district director for MDA in Jackson. The Waveland Civic Association was awarded this plaque in recognition for their contribution to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Each year the Waveland Civic Association sponsors numerous fund-raising events for MDA, including the annual Muscular Dystrophy Telethon. This past year, Smolensky and WCA helped raise more than $10,000, all of which helps residents of Hancock County who are afflicted with Muscular Dystrophy. Trolley

"We certainly have supported you," council member Charles Scianna told Hearn. "But it's not catching on. The demand is not here ... It's just not working."

Tuesday, council authorized negotiations by Mayor Eddie Favre concerning the remnants of service the city has paid for in advance, through March. Himself once an ardent supporter of the program, even Favre showed no sign of pushing to keep the program alive.

Backers of the service, however, urged the city to resist the temptation to scrap the program altogether. Bob Travers, the city's representative on the CTA board of directors, told council that eliminating the program would be "a very serious mistake."

Downtown merchants need to have a public transportation option for shoppers, said Travers, predicting that ridership would increase as the weather warms into spring.

Dave Zeitfuss, owner of a new coffee cafe on Court Street, said he heads up a newly-formed group of Old Town Merchants who petitioned council to retain the service.

"We feel that public transportation is vital for the well being, existence and growth of our unrivaled community," the petition stated.

"By eliminating the public transportation, you are obviously limiting the diversity of visitors to our community and virtually cutting Old Town Bay St. Louis off from additional Mississippi Gulf Coast tourists and tourist dollars, and terminating a tourist attraction in itself on the eve of tourist season, thus hurting not only Old Town, but the entire city..."

Dan Tribble of Casino Magic tried to excite council about the possibility of retaining the bus service for tourists who'll be using the new Amtrak run between Mobile and New Orleans. That train, an experimental line that will be launched at the end of May, will be stopping at Bay St. Louis' newly refurbished depot.

Tribble said Casino Magic plans an aggressive marketing effort to have casino patrons use the train service, supplementing an increasing stream of casino patrons using motor coach transit to Bay St. Louis.

In 1995, Tribble said, Casino Magic was the destination of 3,400 motor coaches, carrying a total of 150,000 visitors to the casino. That's a 30 percent increase over 1994, he said, suggesting that area merchants team up with Casino Magic's marketing proposal.

The casino and merchants could offer a variety of coupons to motor coach patrons that would lure them to try the train service.

Once in town, Tribble said, tourists could use the local bus service to downtown shops as well as the casino.

Travers and Hearn, meanwhile, suggested the city consider keeping at least a "remnant" of public transit alive in the city.

The service could use a small bus in lieu of the trolley, they said, and the route could be revamped for strictly in-city services, rather than conform to connections with other buses along the Coast.

Hearn said the service could even be pared to a three-day-weekly route, costing $12,000 for six months. As it stands, the city has agreed to put up $10,900 for six-day-a-week service over three months, ending April 1.

CTA figures show 535 patrons got on or off the trolley in Bay St. Louis last month, compared to 697 in December, 678 in November and 752 in October.

Meanwhile, there were other statistics for council's consideration in the recycling matter.

Larry Kehrer, director of Gulf Coast Recycling, said the non-profit organization is in financial trouble and will close its doors March 1. He promised that efforts would be made to continue service in Bay St. Louis for a few weeks after that, giving officials time to negotiate a contract with other parties for the service.

Kehrer said he's interested in picking up the program under a company he hopes to form, but he questioned whether the city could accommodate such a transition without having to put the service up for bids.

Council member James Thrifflay suggested Kehrer buy GCR's contract, and continue serving the city until the contract expires in October. Officials agreed to investigate that as a possibility.

GCR is a program operated by the non-profit Laos, Inc., a religious organization headquartered in Gulfport. Kehrer said when he assumed duties with the operation in July 1994, it was suffering from serious financial troubles.

While the group has managed to dig out of some of its deficit, said Kehrer, plummeting revenues from a business paper recycling venture has left the program in trouble.

Ironically, the curbside recycling effort in Bay St. Louis is not part of the financial problem, said Kehrer, adding that efforts have been made to "insulate" the city program from the financial problems of the overall operation.

Service began locally in April 1993, but saw significant drops in participation during 1994, council was told. In 1995, Kehrer said, the Bay St. Louis program saw a "fairly good rebound," with an increase in the total tonnage of recyclables offered by citizens.

Kehrer alluded to various proposals he has made to expand the city program -- including collections of cardboard, magazines, mail and stationary. He also proposed a more aggressive marketing program to educate area citizens on the need to recycle refuse, and on the addition of types of waste to be included.

At the same time, he said he's involved in talks with the countywide Solid Waste District, hoping to operate a new recycling program for the unincorporated area.

Kehrer proposed headquartersing the operation in Hancock County rather than Gulfport, saving transit costs and making the program more locally-based.

Robbery suspects arrested

BY ED LEPOMA

Bay St. Louis Police captured two robbery suspects early Monday morning minutes after a clerk at the Magic Market at Washington and Highway was held up.

Chief Frank McNeil said Benton C. Gray, 25, of Picayune was being held in the Hancock County Jail, charged with armed robbery. His bond was set at $20,000.

Being held under $10,000 bond was Andra J. Dawson, 30, also of Picayune. He is charged with being an accessory to armed robbery.

According to McNeil, Gray entered the convenience store around 1 a.m. Monday, armed with a tire tool. He wore a hooded sweat shirt, and attempted to hide his face, McNeil said the clerk told police.

McNeil said the clerk put money and food stamps inside a bag, and the assailant fled in a waiting car.

Dispatchers put out a description of the get-away car and the suspect, McNeil said, and within minutes the car was spotted in the 600 block of Washington Street, headed towards Old Spanish Trail. As officers approached, the driver attempted to park the car in a driveway, McNeil said.

Zoning

The R-3 multi-family zones would allow single family and two-family homes, low rise apartments, mobile homes, libraries, and all uses permitted in R-1 and R-2 neighborhoods.

Other areas of the county would be reserved as C-1 Neighborhood Commercial Districts, and these would allow businesses, mainly located along rural state highways running through Hancock County that service adjacent residential areas.

A "C-2 Highway Commercial District" is designated to serve high traffic retail and service type trade establishments that serve a market population beyond the community or neighborhood. These types of establishments generate traffic, which planners said is best suited to arterial highways in order to avoid traffic congestion.

Planners have designated an "I-1 District," which includes Port Bienville and the Stennis Airport, for locating manufacturing establishments. It also includes NASA's Stennis Space Center.

The GRPC would be the agency charged with enforcing the zoning code, but there would be avenues for property owners to seek "conditional uses" or a waiver from the Commission. And, property owners could also appeal to Circuit Court.

Moran stressed that the purpose of the meetings is to get public input, and the comments from the four meetings will be used to shape the final zoning proposal.

The time schedule is for planners to have the final Comprehensive Zoning Proposal ready to present to supervisors by their April 15 meeting.

Supervisors would then schedule a final public hearing for April 30 at the County Courthouse before adopting the final version of the ordinance.

District 4 Supervisor Steve Seymour said all five of the supervisors must come together in support of the proposed ordinance before the final public hearing.

"Right now, I'm 110 percent behind ya'll," he said.

District 1 Supervisor Lyonie "Jeep" Ladner wanted to know if a building code would be part of the zoning proposal, but Moran said it wasn't.

"Let's get the zoning through first, then we'll work on that," Moran said.

Track

ate portions of the additional expense so construction of the $220,000 project could begin later this month. The unexpected costs involves moving the visitors bleachers and light poles for safety reasons for football players.

The complications began when district administrator Billy Rhodes met recently at Tiger Stadium with officials from Southwest Recreational Industries, the company installing the track. It was determined that if the track was to be installed without moving any bleachers, only eight feet would be left between the football sideline and the track, posing a potential safety hazard for players.

Rhodes then contacted local companies about moving the bleachers back another seven feet, the maximum amount they could be moved, thereby extending the distance between the sideline and the track to 15 feet.

Additionally, he received estimates for relocating two light standards and the scoreboard. He estimated the total costs to be between $5,000-10,000, which includes disassembling the bleachers immediately and reassembling them at a later date. Rhodes is hoping to get help from Sheriff's trustees.

The process will also involve moving the football field a short distance, but Rhodes said he "doesn't see that being a problem."

Rhodes said an additional option is to permanently remove the poles from behind the visitors bleachers, and replace them with concrete poles to be placed away from the relocated bleachers. Two light standards on the visitors side would cost in the neighborhood of $35,000, Rhodes said, $70,000 for both sides.

"We have several options open as far as the lighting goes," board member Richard Flowers said. "We might have to put the old lights back up, depending on money and time."

"But the priority is to get the poles and bleachers down to start construction," he added. "We can be looking into what it will cost to replace the lights."

Rhodes, who admitted he is "in uncharted waters" when it comes to coordinating the complex project, said the most pressing problem is the wet weather that has been plaguing the area.

"We don't have much of a bottom surface now to get the trucks out there," Rhodes said. "We know what's got to be done."

Board member David Turcotte said when the visitors bleachers are relocated, he would like to see them raised several feet so the space underneath could be used for storage of the track equipment. He also added he doesn't "see any way" the entire lighting system could be replaced in time for the start of football season.

Anyone interested in forming a support group for parents and family members of children with special needs is invited to attend an informal meeting Thursday, Feb. 8 at 6 p.m. at the Martin Luther King Municipal Building (formerly the Mississippi Power Company Building in downtown Biloxi) located at 676 Washington Loop, Biloxi.

Purpose of this group will be to provide support, social interaction, activities, education and information to families and caregivers of children with special needs, such as genetic conditions (such as Down Syndrome, cleft lip/palate, PKU, Spina Bifida); hearing or vision impairments; physical conditions (such as Cerebral Palsy, ventilator dependency or seizure disorders); mental conditions (such as autism or emotional disorders); developmental delays and ADD/ADHD.

The meeting will give families an opportunity to meet other families similarly situated and to learn about programs serving exceptional families along the Gulf Coast as well as to share their areas of interest in order to plan future meetings and programs to meet the needs of special families.

Educators, professionals, medical and service providers to special needs families are welcome to attend as well.

ERA expands Internet services

Electronic Realty Associates, L.P. (ERA Real Estate) has introduced a new electronic home shopping service on the Internet.

The service, called ERA Online, is a real estate resource for consumers, providing broker and agent profiles, market reports and information on more than 40,000 ERA member broker listings from the United States, Japan, Thailand, Singapore, Indonesia, France, the Netherlands and South Africa.

ERA Online is available on the World Wide Web at <http://www.teamera.com>.

By accessing the service, home shoppers can browse through color photos and descriptions of properties for sale from the convenience of their personal computers. The service reduces the legwork involved with house hunting by allowing buyers to narrow their search to a few select homes before jumping in the car.

ERA Online is an advantage for sellers who can market their homes to potentially millions of consumers worldwide via the Internet, according to Herb Dubuison, president with ERA Bayshore Realty.

"The World Wide Web is an ideal marketplace for reaching a growing number of consumers," Dubuison said. "ERA Online is easy to reach, and there is no sales pressure. The technology helps buyers become more informed about market conditions and availability of homes before contacting a sales professional for assistance."

In addition to the listing service ERA brokers and agents are linking personal home pages to ERA Online with information about their professional background and market specializations. The home pages include a full-color photo of the agent, and address and phone number.

ERA Online is the latest in a series of technological advances that have fueled ERA Real Estate's growth over the past two decades. In 1972 ERA introduced electronics to the real estate industry through a facsimile-based technology called the ERA Moving Machine. The system allowed ERA members to send black and white photos and descriptions of home listings across the country via fax transmissions.

The company led the industry into the computer age in 1992 through the Electronic Home Selling Network (EHSN)—a computer database displaying color photos and descriptions of over 50,000 ERA broker listings. Still available today, home listing on the database can be downloaded onto an ERA Sales associate's laptop computer for presentation in a client's home.

ERA initially explored the effectiveness of on-line marketing by placing its Electronic Home Selling Network database on the Homes & Lands Publishing Internet service (<http://www.homes.com/Welcom.e.html>) in January 1995.

During the last 10 months ERA placed nearly 900 referrals as a direct result of the service. An agreement has been reached between ERA and national Relocation and Real Estate magazine to place the listing database on a third web-site called HomeWEB (<http://www.usdigital.com/homeweb>) developed by U.S. Digital.

Coast History Week set

Mississippi Coast History Week will be celebrated Feb. 11-17. This will be the 197th anniversary of Iberville's landing on the shores of the present-day city of Biloxi.

History Week was created seven years ago by the Mississippi Coast Historical & Genealogical Society to promote awareness of the colorful Coast history and to start a slow buildup to a grand finale on Feb. 13, 1999, the 300th anniversary of Iberville's landing in Biloxi.

His landing marked the beginning of a series of activities which led to the exploration and strategic occupation of the lower Mississippi Valley by the French. It was also the beginning of colonial activities and a new period in Mississippi Gulf Coast history.

The main event of the week is the "Living History French Encampment," which will feature 18th century French dress and French crafts on the Gulf Coast.

The reenactment will take place on the grounds of the Maritime & Seafood Industry Museum at Point Oudet in Biloxi Feb. 11-17 from 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

Demonstrations will include gunsmith, sash weaving, leather works, oyster shucking, sewing, period cooking, moss mattress making, military arms demonstrations and other colonial crafts. Historians will bring the past to life by emulating persons in the 18th century.

Feb. 13 at 11 a.m. a Mass will be celebrated at the campsite by Father Dennis Carver.

Admission to the campsite is free, and the public is invited. History Week is co-sponsored by the City of Biloxi. It is also supported by the Ohr Center, Maritime and Seafood Industry Museum and the Biloxi Public Library.

Grant received

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs has received funding from the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium for a new GCRL study which will develop an approach to assess how environmental fluctuations affect the early growth of commercially important fishes using different nursery habitats.

Marine students

Coast Episcopal fourth grade students, from left, Will Mestayer, MacAllister Marshall and Jeanne Pitre are standing with Richard from the Marine Research Center. The team of students, with advisor Karen Spidahl, have participated in the Toshiba ExploraVision Regional Competition. ExploraVision is a competition for students of all interest, skill and ability levels. Purpose of the competition is to encourage students to combine their imaginations with the tools of science and technology to create and explore a vision of the future. The title of this team entry is "Oil and Its Downpours on Water."

GED program explained

Students entering the GED program at Hancock High School begin by taking a reading test so a diagnostic test can be taken at the appropriate level.

From the diagnostic survey, the students learn exactly what their strengths and weaknesses are on subjects tested on the GED examination.

Study time in GED class and at home is confined to areas where students show a weakness and need for help.

The first day of a GED test, students must show a proficiency in the English language. A multiple choice grammar exam is averaged with the grade earned for a 200-word essay, which is written in 45 minutes. Students must achieve a grade of 40 on the GED test.

GED classes teach how to write an essay, as well as all aspects of grammar, literature and writing.

The second day of the exam will test the students' efficiency in social science, science, art and literature and mathematics.

If the essay score is satisfactory, only the individual subjects receiving less than 40 have to be retaken. If the student fails the essay, the entire exam must be repeated to receive a GED certificate. Each subject must earn at least a 40 or an average of 45.

The essay is graded by a group of teachers, and the multiple choice tests by machines. The information is sent to Jackson, from whence the GED diploma is mailed.

Budweiser Clydesdales visit the Bay

BY KELLY BLANCHARD

When I first heard they were coming, the Budweiser theme song ran through my head. I couldn't remember the words, but as someone who was born and raised in St. Louis, Mo., you heard it a lot.

At the St. Louis Cardinals baseball game during the seventh inning stretch, you heard it. When you tour the brewery and visit the official home of the Clydesdales, you hear it played in the background.

I was also fortunate enough to live a couple of miles from Grant's Farm, which is the 281-acre ancestral home of the Busch family. Free daily tours are given through part of the farm and also visitors are able to see more of the Clydesdales stabled there.

This year marks the 61st anniversary of the world-famous Budweiser Clydesdales. They were formally introduced to August A. Busch Sr. and Anheuser-Busch on April 7, 1933, to celebrate the repeal of Prohibition. August A. Busch Jr. wanted to commemorate the special day. To his father's delight, the hitch thundered down Pestalozzi Street carrying the first case of post-Prohibition beer from the St. Louis brewery.

The Clydesdale originally came from Scotland in the early 19th century. Today's Budweiser Clydesdales are even bigger than their Scottish ancestors. To qualify for the world-famous, eight-horse hitch, a Budweiser Clydesdale must meet certain requirements.

Standing at 18 hands high (about six feet) at the shoulder when fully grown, Budweiser Clydesdales weigh approximately 2,000 pounds. They are geldings, meaning they have four white stockings and a blaze of white on their face as well as a white tail. As many as 150,000 horses meet millions of people each year.

In two months, a Budweiser Clydesdale hitch horse will consume 25-30 quarts of feed, 50-60 pounds of hay and up to 30 gallons of water.

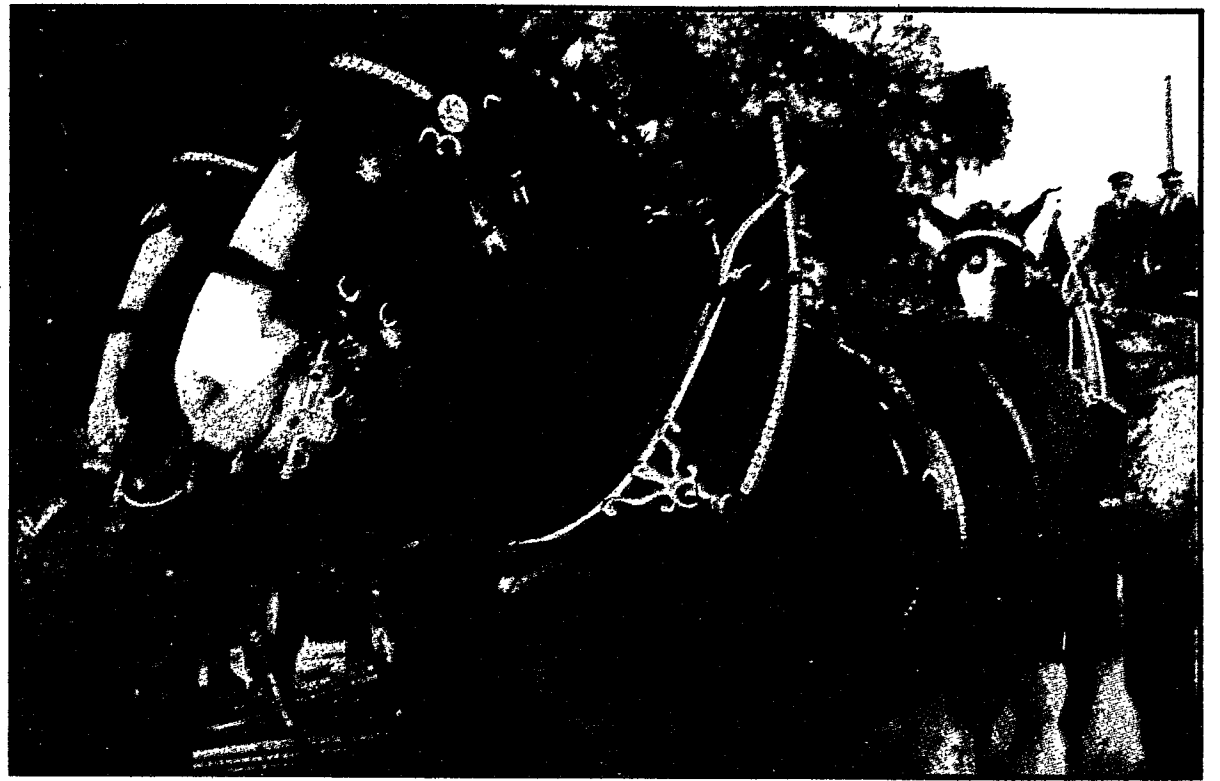

The Clydesdales travel in a style befitting a king. The caravan includes three 50-foot tractor trailers, custom-built for the horses with rubber flooring, air suspension and vent fans to ease the rigors of hours on the road. Two trailers carry the Clydesdales; a third takes everything else -- the historic beer wagon, harnesses and other gear.

As I watched the crowd waiting for the Budweiser Clydesdales on Court Street, I remembered my childhood home and felt just as excited as the children and adults around me, even though I've seen them numerous times.

For those who hadn't seen them before, and for those who had, it was without doubt a wonderful treat.

As for me, I relived some wonderful childhood memories and am glad to say that though the coast has come home to me and I am proud to come to a city with such a world-famous and time-honored tradition.

The world-famous Budweiser Clydesdales are unloaded by the handlers (left) and prepared to be hitched up. (Above) The finished team, hitched up and ready to roll through Bay St. Louis.

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Richard Meek

Although Ken Matthews is in the autumn of his teaching career, his coaching career has only just begun.

Matthews accomplished in his first year as a high school coach what perhaps no other coach has ever accomplished. He coached both the Bay High boys and girls soccer teams and guided both to second place finishes in their respective districts and state playoff berths.

The Tigers finished the regular season 6-7, second to St. Stanislaus. However, their season abruptly ended Tuesday night with a 4-2 loss to Mercy Cross in the first round of the state playoffs.

The Lady Tigers are 12-2, with both losses coming to cross-town rival Our Lady Academy. In only their fourth year, the Bay High girls, who have outscored their opponents 86-8 to this point, are expected to at least reach the state semifinals, in all probability against OLA.

The Lady Tigers opened the playoffs with a 1-0 overtime victory at Ocean Springs on Monday.

"I have been teaching 27 years, and I have never had so much fun," said Matthews, a Long Beach resident and art teacher at Bay High.

"It has been rewarding," he added. "To be able to coach two teams like this is great. Both teams are competitive, and the kids are very coachable."

Matthews, who has coached recreational soccer teams in Gulfport and Long Beach, among other places, credits assistant Rosalyn Watson with helping make the unusual one-coach, two-team scheme work. "Without her, I could not have done it," Matthews said of Watson, a part-time teacher at Bay High.

Matthews admitted unique obstacles had to be overcome to coach two teams, but was quick to credit his players for their patience. Both teams would practiced at the same time, and while he may have been instructing one team to warm up, the other team may have already been running drills.

"That is real unusual, because kids just normally like to scrimmage instead of running drills," Matthews said. "But I would tell the kids what I wanted, and they would do it."

"This is because of strong leadership from the players."

Matthews also encountered some scheduling difficulties, because he could not be at two games at the same time. In fact, the boys' first round playoff game, originally delayed because of the weather, was pushed back a second time from Monday to Tuesday because of the girls' game in Ocean Springs.

"(The boys and girls teams) traveled a lot together this year," Matthews said. "(The scheduling) was a little bit of a problem."

Matthews inherited a Lady Tigers team that was 3-3 in their first year, and 6-4 a year ago. This year, only OLA, Gulfport and Long Beach have even scored against Bay High goalie Alicia Gavagnie.

"I've coached against the girls I am now coaching," Matthews said. "They get out there and play tough. They are like a family."

Although the only Lady Tiger blemishes have come against OLA (3-2, 3-1), Matthews said he would like to face the Crescents in the playoffs one final time. That could happen in the state semifinals, scheduled for Feb. 16 at Hinds Community College in Jackson.

"It's a friendly rival," Matthews said. "I am not going to make excuses, but in the first game, we scored two of their goals."

"In the second, we were slowed by kids with the flu. But I think if we stay healthy, we will do okay."

For this year, Matthews may have only one team in the state championship game. But in years to come, he may scarcely have time to celebrate one state championship before running off to coach in another.

Lady Wildcats lose to Gulf Coast

The Pearl River Community College's 63-62 loss to Mississippi Gulf Coast last Thursday mirrors the Lady Wildcats' season.

"We have been in just about every game this season," said coach Polly Kirkland. "But for some reason, we go stone cold and let games slip away."

The most recent case was when the Lady Wildcats, 2-7 in the division and 6-15 overall, scored just two points in the last four minutes and thirty seconds.

Pearl River, leading 60-49, allowed the Gulf Coast Lady Bulldogs to score 14 points to post the South Division victory.

Lady Tigers win opener; will host Meridian

BY RANDY PONDER
A dramatic goal in overtime propelled the Bay High Lady Tigers into the second round of the Mississippi High School Activities Association's inaugural girls state soccer tournament Monday night in Ocean Springs.

"I couldn't see the ball, but I saw their goalie's face go to the ground, and I knew the shot was in," Tiger coach Ken Matthews stated.

Bay High will face Meridian at 6 p.m. Monday at Joe D. McCullough Tiger Stadium in the second round of the playoffs.

Like two heavy weight contenders battling toe to toe, the Lady Tigers and the Lady Greyhounds had fought to a scoreless tie at the end of regulation play.

Ocean Springs, 19-4-1, seemed to have the early momentum, keeping the ball on the Tigers' end of the field. The Greyhounds repeatedly worked the ball to the Bay High goal only to be denied by excellent defensive work by keeper Alicia Gavagnie.

"We let them set the pace in the first half," Matthews said. "We let them dominate, beat us to the ball. We seemed to be sitting around waiting for someone to make a big play. It took us until the second half to really start clicking."

The second half did indeed belong to the Lady Tigers. Instead of reacting, Bay High started playing team ball, took control and went on offense, dominating play.

Time after time, a pass to an open player would result in a one-on-one situation with the Ocean Springs goalie. Each time the challenge was answered and the threat stymied by aggressive play of the Greyhound keeper.

"They have a good goalie, but I think we made her look better than she really is," Matthews said. "We would work our way into position to make a shot and then kick the ball right at her."

Give her credit, she played a good game, would come out of the goal and rush our players."

Following regulation play, a 20-minute overtime game, consisting of two 10 minute halves was played.

Again, the Tigers took the game to the Lady Greyhounds. Midway through the first half, Bay High scored the winning goal.

Ellen Felder launched the ball to Julie Heitzmann on an inbound pass. Heitzmann took the ball, broke free from several defenders and charged towards the goal. The Greyhound keeper left the goal and rushed out to block Heitzmann's shot. The ball bounced to the left side of a wide open goal to where Michelle Perniciaro waited. Perniciaro had to wait for the ball to bounce to her. By that time the goalie and another defender were diving to the ball, but not before Perniciaro booted it into the back of the net for her 22nd goal of the year and a 1-0 victory for Bay High.

"They were undefeated in their division," Matthews explained. "I've watched them play twice this season. They played us a lot stronger than they played those other two games. They were determined they were going to beat us."

"We did not want to get into a shoot-out with them. They beat Long Beach earlier this year in a shoot-out."

The very real possibility now exists that Bay High and Our Lady's Academy could face each other for the third time this year. If both teams win their second round playoff games, they would meet in Jackson on Friday, February 16 at Pearl High School to determine the South State champion and a berth in the overall girls state championship game the next day. OLA won their opening round contest 3-0 over Pascagoula. Both of Bay High's losses this season were to OLA.

"We would like to play them again, win or lose," Matthews stated. "It would be an exciting, competitive game. The girls know each other and are friends. I guess the best way to describe the game is that we are friendly rivals. We look forward to playing them again."

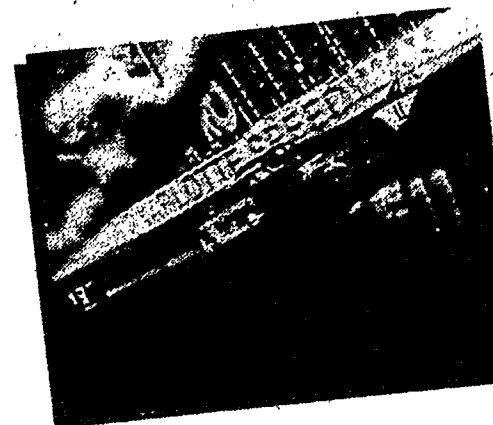

The Lady Tigers have dominated their opposition this season, building an impressive 13 win, 2 loss record. They have outscored the competition 85-8. Keepers Alicia Gavagnie and Renee Jensen have combined for 11 shutouts.

The starting backfield of Lindsey Piazza, Rachel Perniciaro, Rebecca Dupuy and Mandy French has been so overpowering that in six contests they did not allow a single shot on goal.

Offensive leaders for the Lady Tigers are Michelle Perniciaro with 22 goals, Julie Heitzmann with 20 and Amanda Kingston with 16. Other offensive standouts are Julie Summers with 7 goals; Ellen Felder, 4; Jennifer Storey, 3; Rachel Perniciaro, 3; Alicia Gavagnie, 3; Rebecca Dupuy, 2; Ashley Ponder, 2; Belle Penrose, 2 and Mandis French, 1.

Heitzmann leads the team in assists with 6, followed by Kingston with 5, Storey and Felder with 4, Michelle Perniciaro and Summers, 3, Gavagnie with 2, and French, Piazza, Penrose and Rachel Perniciaro 1 each.

Gex becomes first SSC Division I football signee in 15 years

St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaw's football program got a boost Wednesday when quarterback Correy W. Gex signed a National Letter of Intent to play football at Ole Miss.

Gex was the Rocks' first Division I football signee since 1981, when Lee Klein signed with the University of Southern Mississippi and Juan Betanzos with LSU.

Before Klein and Betanzos, the last Division I signee was Jody Benvenuti in 1972, who also signed with Ole Miss.

The Rocks have had numerous players go on to Division II schools such as Delta State, Mississippi College, Southeastern Louisiana University, and Nicholls State. SSC athletes are also in the Division III ranks playing at schools like Millsaps College, Rhodes College, and Morehouse College.

Gex's first cousin, Walter J. "Joe" Gex IV, played baseball for Ole Miss from 1983-87. He later became an All-Southeastern Conference pick for the Rebels in 1986 and 1987 and was named a CoSIDA-GTE All-American in 1987. He was later drafted by the Kansas City Royals.

Gex threw for 913 yards and eight TD's this past season. He rushed for 137 yards and three scores. He was second on the team in tackles with 65 total stops and 31 solos in playing four games at linebacker. He also recorded four sacks, two interceptions, and two blocked

PAT's.

Gex threw for 1,819 career yards and 15 touchdowns. He completed 101 passes for 225 attempts. He also rushed for 542 yards and seven scores.

Defensively, Gex recorded 140 total stops with 67 solo tackles, 27 for losses. He also had 18 sacks and five interceptions.

Gex was named to the Division 7 Class 4A first team and named an honorable mention pick to the All-Gulf Coast team.

Gex is currently playing forward on the SSC basketball team and will play baseball for the Rocks in the spring.

Gex becomes the third Division I signee for the Rocks in any sport in the last eight months. In November, senior Terry Lawyer signed with the Mississippi State Bulldogs to play basketball. Last May, Vince Moran signed with Mississippi State to run track after a stellar high jumping career that ended with two state titles.

Gex was also being recruited by Southwestern Louisiana, LSU, Nicholls State, and the University of Pennsylvania.

Rocks rolling with win

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaw soccer team took its first step in winning a state title in Class II by defeating the St. John Eagles 7-0 in the only state playoff game held this weekend due to the extreme weather.

The Rocks relied on the prowess of underclassmen A.J. Pace, Billy Powell, and Justin Wadsworth to help SSC take charge.

Pace and Wadsworth each scored twice for the Rocks while Powell had three assists in the contest.

Brad Cannon moved one step closer to the century mark by scoring his 97th career goal. Seniors Jeremy Compretta and Casey Swanson each scored a goal to make the final mark. SSC led 4-0 at halftime as the Eagles never presented a challenge to the Rocks.

This weekend the Rocks will play the winner of the Piney Woods-Lauderdale game.

The Rocks improve to 19-2-6 on the season.

ASA steps up net ban effort

The American Sportfishing Association announced it was stepping up efforts to win a net ban in Mississippi after gill netters shot at two state conservation officers earlier this week.

"Mississippi is among the last few safe harbors in the Gulf of Mexico for gill nets and similar entanglement nets. These nets are indiscriminate killers of fish and wildlife," said ASA Vice President Mike Nussman.

"Now it appears those who care so little about our fisheries resources care less about the law and the lives of Mississippi conservation officers."

"ASA intends to double efforts on this issue in the Mississippi Legislature," Nussman said. "By upping the ante this way, ASA will make sure the state's elected representatives understand how these netting operations hurt the state economy. Commercial netters have had such experts working for them for years, ASA is evening the odds."

Last year, ASA told the Department of Marine Resources that gill nets were hurting the state's red drum and mullet populations, killing mammals, birds and turtles and driving tourists and recreational anglers away from Mississippi's coastal communities. ASA also agreed to fund a lobbyist to help the Gulf Coast Conservation Association of Mississippi to help win netting restrictions in 1996.

More than 100,000 resident adult anglers and 60,000 non-resident anglers make over 670,000 trips to Mississippi annually seeking game fish.

Non-resident tourists comprise about 34-40 percent of the state's coastal anglers and are an important source of revenue.

Anglers spend $38 million in Mississippi in pursuit of red drum, spotted sea trout, croaker, flounder and other species.

Of this amount tourists spend about $10 million. The resulting economic impact of recreational angling in Mississippi is $71 million. Marine anglers support almost 2,000 full- and part-time jobs in Mississippi and provide $2.7 million in sales tax to the state coffers.

the season.

Andie Fillingame scored the OLA's first goal of the contest to put OLA up in the first half 1-0. Fillingame scored her 23rd goal of the season and 74th of her career.

OLA will play the winner of the Clinton-West Jones game this Friday night.

OLA Crescents advance

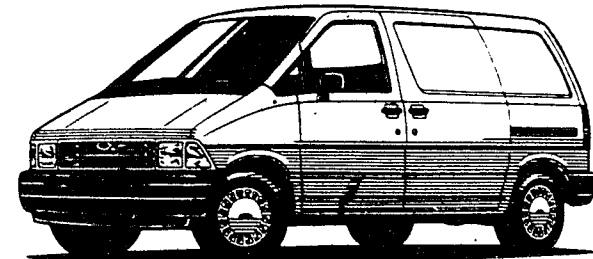

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The OLA Crescents took their first step to the girls inaugural state soccer title on Monday, Feb. 5 with a 3-0 victory over the Pascagoula Lady Panthers.

Kathryn Scafield scored two goals in the second half to lead the Crescents to victory and improve their record to 13-2 on

Bay High loses to Mercy Cross

BY RICHARD MEEK

Bay High's improbable journey to Jackson came to an abrupt end Tuesday night at chilly Yankee Stadium in Biloxi. The upstart Tigers dropped a 4-2 decision to Mercy Cross in the first round of the state playoffs.

"We were not as aggressive as we have been the last two to three games," Bay High coach Ken Matthews said. "We started out strong but after that, we were sporadic."

Bay High fell behind 2-0 after the first half on goals by the Crusaders' Zack Martin and Daniel Martin. Mac Smith added a pair of early second half goals to increase Mercy Cross' lead to 4-0.

The Tigers, who ended their surprising season 6-8, rallied with goals by Greg Dupuy and Jimmy Kingston.

"I'm proud of the way our kids hung in there after getting down," Matthews said. "They could have begun looking at their feet, but not one did. They played hard until the end."

Bay High dominated the early going, but were unable to score. Dupuy had the Tigers' best scoring opportunity, but the Crusader goalie made an outstanding block of Dupuy's penalty kick.

Following the missed kick, the Crusaders put intense pressure on Tiger goalie Steven Boudro, who responded with several impressive blocks of his own. At one point, Boudro stopped three straight corner kicks by Mercy.

But midway through the first half, Zack Martin's short kick got through and gave the Crusaders a 1-0 lead.

Late in the first half, Daniel Martin gave the Crusaders a 2-0 lead with his goal.

Smith began the third quarter with a short kick from the right side to give Mercy Cross a 3-0 lead. Minutes later, Smith's long kick from the center of the field put the Crusaders on top 4-0.

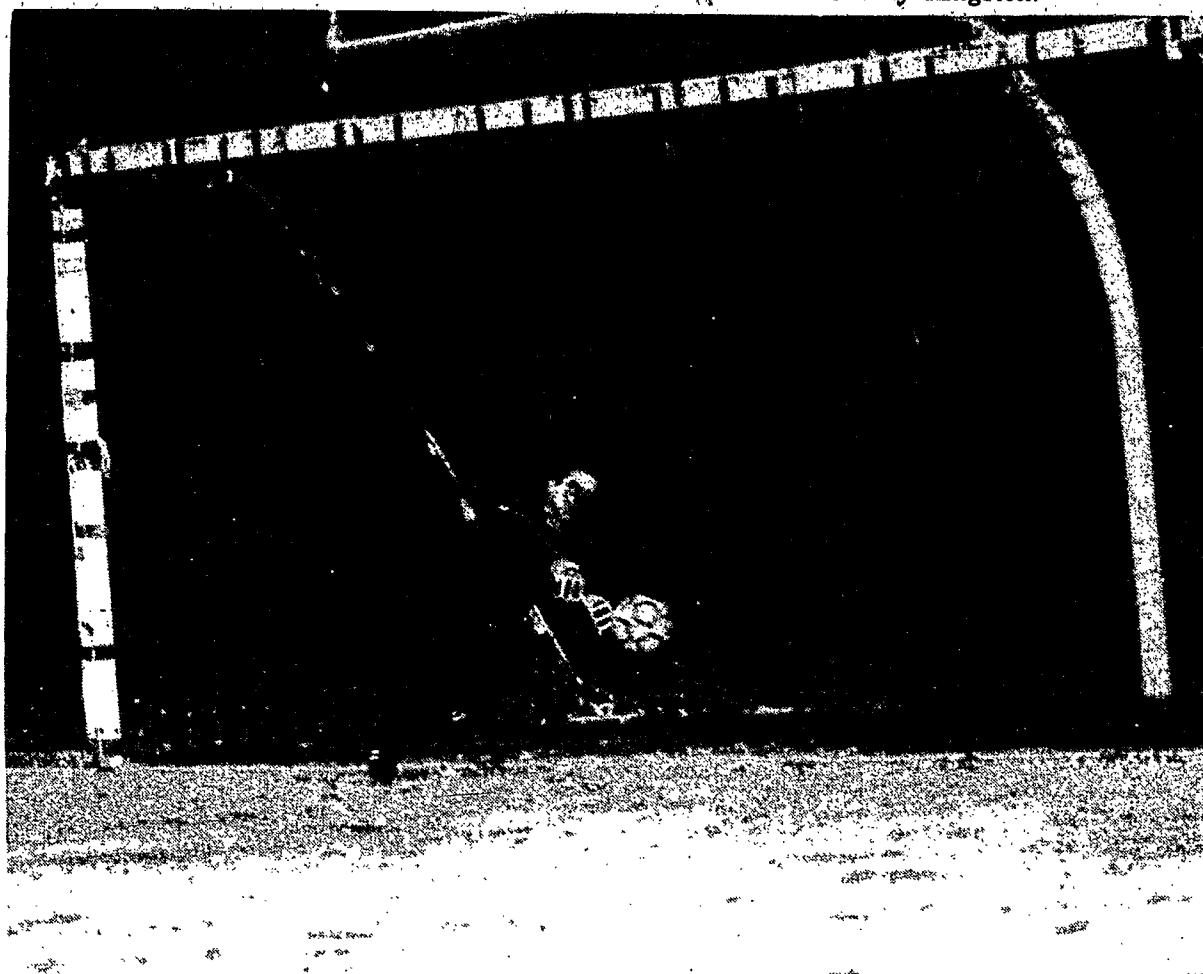

After their initial charge, the Tigers seldom threatened until late in the match.

"We just let (Mercy Cross) beat us to the ball," Matthews said. "Mercy Cross played their game, and played with a lot of confidence."

"Early, we had the advantage," he added. "Then we went back and forth for a while."

Dupuy scored on a rebound to pull the Tigers to within 4-1. With under four minutes remaining, Kingston scored on a long goal to pull the Tigers to within two goals.

But the Crusaders were able to control the ball for much of the final four minutes.

Lady Tigers stay atop division with win over Hancock

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Hancock Hawks and Bay High Tigers faced each other in a cross county and Division 7 rival game on Tuesday, Feb. 6.

The Bay High Lady Tigers kept their lead in the Division 7 race with a 59-41 win over the Lady Hawks.

The Lady Tigers jumped out to a 12-9 lead in the first period and held a slim two point lead going into halftime 23-21.

In the third period, Bay High surged ahead holding the Lady Hawks to just five points.

Chanda Haley scored 10 points and 11 rebounds while Lisa Yarborough canned 10 points, nine rebounds, and five assists. Shannon Baker tallied 11 assists in the contest while Valerie Christmas scored 10 points.

The real difference in the game came from two-sport star Alicia Gavagnie who scored 16 points to lead Bay High. Gavagnie also added three steals and five assists in the game.

The Lady Tiger improved to 21-4 and 8-2 in the division.

Jessica Pucheu and Tina Dedeaux each scored 11 points to lead the Lady Hawks.

The Hawks stung the Tigers 61-52 in division action on Tuesday, Feb. 5.

Bay High took an early lead in the first period 20-18 before letting the Hawks dominate in the third period to make the final margin.

Mark Price scored 19 points to lead the Tigers including five three pointers. Steven Cooksey added 15 points in the loss.

Jahdiel Baptiste scored 15 points to lead the Hawks while Bo Reaves added 14 points. Jerod Breaux and Jason Jones each added 12 points to round out the double figure scorers for the Hawks.

Hancock improves to 12-13 on the season and to 3-7 in the division.

Three Wildcats kicked off

Three of the top four Pearl River Wildcats are off the team.

Sophomore guard Omar Nelson and freshman 6-8 center Chad Jones were dismissed from the team for "actions detrimental to the team," according to head coach Richard Mathis.

Keith Myers, a 6-8 center from Picayune, left the team, saying he was tired of basketball.

Myers averaged nine points a game, Nelson eight and Jones almost 20.

A bigger load falls now on sophomore all-stater Donnie Johnson — who is averaging 27 points a game — and a host of freshmen.

"It's tough," said Mathis. "We were just starting to jell as a team. But rules are rules, and the rules are for everyone on the team."

After an 0-4 start, the Wildcats rebounded and posted an 8-8 mark last week. After league-leading Gulf Coast beat the Wildcats 70-52 last Thursday, Pearl River is now 8-11 overall.

"We have our hands full," said Mathis, who led the Wildcats to the state championship last year. "We'll need 110 percent out of everyone on the court for us to compete the remainder of the season."

TAKE ANOTHER ASPIRIN & IGNORE THE OBVIOUS.

Headache pain is often a warning signal to the body that something is wrong. Yet, often when we get rid of the pain, we're ignoring the problem behind it.

There are many causes of headaches. One of the most frequent is misalignment of one or more of the small spinal bones in the neck. When these CERVICAL VERTEBRAE are displaced, the nerves between them are affected. Headaches of all kinds may result, migraines, pain at the base of the skull, behind the eyes or the forehead.

Our doctors at Hoda Chiropractic Clinics are experienced in treating headaches of this kind, can restore cervical vertebrae to their proper positions, thus halting the painful nerve interference which causes some headaches.

When you have a headache, see Dr. Desmond Hoda.
